Also, we are working hard to get a one-year schedule in place in the next year. We do not plan on allowing registration for both fall and spring. |

| Yes | | Summer & Fall | | Yes, same as student register above | | As of this spring we have decided to go to a yearly schedule; we figure it'll take us 9-12 months to implement. We intend to completely revise and update our scheduling process following a three day intensive business process analysis of our current scheduling processes and will research scheduling software to assist in this project. |

| Yes | | All | | Yes, year round (Summer, Fall, Spring posted) | | College of the Redwoods has almost completed our first year of opening summer, fall, and spring at once. Our deans found it very difficult to build the schedule, our faculty were mixed (some found it overwhelming and some liked knowing in advance), and we are currently surveying students. |

| No | Yes | Other | Have not decided... but initially may be for cohort programs only | Yes, year round (Summer, Fall, Spring posted) | | We are studying right now - as we keep moving our enrollment dates earlier; students are not taking advantage of their appointments. Moving dates earlier than mid semesters, student do not know if they have met prerequisites in the English/math sequences. We now post year ahead class schedules without faculty names for planning. |

These Plans provide the sequence for scheduling of all courses (year/semester) but do not provide the day/time schedule for the designated semester. These plans provide the framework for day/time scheduling by the Division Chairs. Reliance on adjunct faculty to teach in most Programs, and the shortage of qualified adjunct faculty limit the ability to provide a reasonable yearly schedule of classes. |
| No | Yes | Other | Winter and spring | Other | We try to post all four terms before summer starts - summer, fall, winter, spring | We are getting a lot of complaints from the DH's regarding the scheduling - too much work at once and way too many changes in staffing since the schedule is posted so early. |
